ABOUT THE PRESERVATION HONOR AWARDS

Historic Hawai’i Foundation’s preservation awards have been presented annually since 1975. They are Hawai’i’s highest recognition of projects that perpetuate, rehabilitate, restore or interpret the state’s architectural and cultural heritage.

The honorees are selected by a committee comprised of professionals in architecture, history, planning, landscape architecture, architectural history, and design. Each nomination is considered on its own merits and not in competition with others.

“Since 1974 HHF has committed itself to the preservation of places that help tell Hawai’i’s unique, multifaceted and fascinating story,” states Pat Griffin, chairperson of the Awards committee. “One happy pleasure in fulfilling that mission is our annual celebration of others’ success in completing exemplary preservation projects. This year’s dedicated committee reviewed numerous efforts to repair and rehabilitate buildings and objects, interpret historical sites, prepare manuals for appropriate maintenance techniques, and more. The committee was well pleased with the quality of work we reviewed that is taking place around the state.”

HONORS CATEGORIES

• ACHIEVEMENTS IN INTERPRETIVE MEDIA for a printed publication or visual presentation that interpreted the history, preservation or physical characteristics of a historic property.

• INDIVIDUAL ACHIEVEMENT recognizes an individual who engaged in advocacy, educational, programmatic or other activity supporting preservation efforts, either for a specific historic property or through a broad-based program.

• PRESERVATION COMMENDATION honors an organization or government agency that engaged in advocacy, educational, programmatic, or other activity supporting preservation efforts, either for a specific historic property or through a broad-based program.

• PRESERVATION AWARD recognizes a specific project that preserved, rehabilitated or restored a historic property.

• ANNIVERSARY RECOGNITIONS celebrate the rich history of kama‘aina companies, organizations and institutions that are an important and integral part of the singular culture of the Hawaiian Islands.

• THE FRANK HAINES AWARD established in 2009 and named for master architect Frank Haines, FAIA, is presented to individuals who have demonstrated sustained and outstanding achievements in the areas of preserving the significant historic and cultural places of Hawai‘i.

This sixteen-page timeline is significant as an inclusive history of leprosy/Hansen’s disease and of Kalaupapa. It includes notable dates associated with the historic figures of Father Damien and Mother Marianne, as well as lesser-known events, such as the accomplishments of people who were sent to Kalaupapa and the visits made by members of the royal family who were involved in improving the lives of people affected by leprosy. Personal photographs enhance the historical timeline.

Illustrates the history and architectural evolution of the City & County Honolulu Hale Building since it was constructed in 1928. The exhibit documents and helps to encourage public appreciation of this significant Honolulu landmark. It is also a fine example of partnership between the City, State Historic Preservation Division and private firms for historic preservation.

HONOLULU INTERNMENT CAMP
EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT
Kunia, O‘ahu

Contributes to the education of the public about a crucial piece of Hawai‘i’s history and Japanese American history that is often overlooked. The exhibit tells the story of the Camp through an interactive, multi-sensory environment, that helps visitors, especially the younger generation, imagine on a more personal level the struggle that Japanese-Americans faced during World War II and reminds them of a past that should not be repeated.

WWII KILAUEA DETAINMENT CAMP
WAYSIDE EXHIBITS
Hawai‘i Volcanoes National Park, Hawai‘i

Three interpretive waysides that highlight the history of the Japanese-American incarceration and detainment at Kīlauea during World War II, providing on-site information for daily visitors. The waysides highlight the unique experiences of Japanese-Americans living on Hawai‘i island who were isolated from the immediate impacts of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, yet became caught up in the nationwide fear, racial prejudice, and hysteria against people of Japanese ancestry that resulted from the war.

• Hawai‘i Volcanoes National Park, National Park Service

Congratulations to our park partner Hawai‘i Volcanoes National Park on receiving this prestigious 2018 Preservation Honor Award!
For the past three decades, Miki Izu has contributed hundreds of hours of service every year to Kona Historical Society and its two Smithsonian-affiliated museums and historic sites. A gifted storyteller, consultant, woodworker and carpenter, he has helped preserve the Kona Coffee Farm Living Museum’s historic buildings and bring Kona’s unique culture to life, particularly through his ability to engage and entertain visitors.

E ALA PA‘AIAU FISHPOND RESTORATION
Kalalauo/East Loch, O‘ahu

A community effort to restore one of the last remaining loko i’a (fishponds) in the Keawalau o Pu‘u‘ula area. By working together to remove invasive plants and restore the fishpond’s walls, community stakeholders and neighbors realized they share in common many values and goals. Generational family relationships were also rediscovered. This project not only helped to preserve Loko Pa‘aiau, built more than 600 years ago, it also resulted in a sense of healing and renewal for a community.

Comprehensive repairs and preservation to the exterior of the Battleship Missouri Memorial’s superstructure above the 05 level, including the forward fire control tower, forward stack, and forward mast. The largest repair and preservation effort to take place on the battleship since the ship was decommissioned in 2010, this project returned the USS Missouri to her former glory, helping to educate present and future generations about her historic role in times of peace and war.

- Battleship Missouri Memorial
- Sight + Sound Studios

Restored all of the original 1932 steel multi-lite pivot industrial windows of Building 39, a former engine and aircraft overhaul shop that has served an important function in national conflicts since World War I. Because the building was not required to be Anti-Terrorism Force Protection compliant, it was possible to retain and restore the original windows, rather than replace them, helping to preserve the historic integrity of the building’s exterior.

An exemplary model of preservation, this project strengthened the structural systems of this 110-year old wood-frame building and rehabilitated its character-defining features, including its roof, full-length front and back porches, original divided lite windows, colonial columns, and clapboarding. As a result of this project, the building received LEED Silver certification for its energy use and environmental design.

Originally built in 1917 as a small arms shop, Building 339 is part of the Hawaiian Ordnance Depot historic district. Historic exterior features, such as the gable roof, stucco finish and original double hung windows, were preserved while the building’s interior was repurposed to current needs. The upper floors of the building were converted into office space and the single-story warehouse is now a dental facility.

CONGRATULATIONS!!

To the ENOMOTO MURALS PROJECT on receiving a prestigious 2018 Preservation Award!

We are proud to have been part of the team.
Awarded for the restoration, relocation, and re-installation of five ceramic murals created in 1961 by artist Isami Enomoto. These large murals, each roughly six feet in height by up to eleven feet in width, vividly capture the rise of the labor movement and the Democratic working class in Hawai‘i in the 1960s. After an intensive restoration, the murals were relocated to the Center for Labor Education and Research on the campus of University of Hawai‘i, West O‘ahu, an impactful, publicly accessible location.

KONA COFFEE LIVING HISTORY FARM
FARMHOUSE ROOF REHABILITATION

Captain Cook, Hawai‘i

The roof replacement protected the historic farmhouse from damage by rain leakage and termite infestation. Through the use of appropriate materials and rehabilitation strategies, attention was given to retain an aged and used appearance, maintaining the farmhouse’s historic integrity and enhancing visitors’ experience at this unique living history farm.

KUNIA VILLAGE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT REHABILITATION

Kunia, O‘ahu

The former plantation camp was rehabilitated to provide low-income housing to farm workers and their families. The goal of providing housing was met in two ways: the rehabilitation of 45 historic houses and the construction of 37 new houses designed to be compatible with the historic ones. All sewer, water and electrical lines to the rehabilitated houses were replaced and a pump house was installed to increase water pressure to each property. This project is an exemplary master plan for plantation housing rehabilitation.

Preservation of six murals painted by Victor Nels Solander depicting Naval Air Station Midway Islands during World War II. Through meticulous cleaning, repair and research of these murals, this project provides a visual record of one of the most pivotal battle sites in the world and helps to honor the sacrifice and courage of the men who fought there. Today the murals are on display at the Pacific Aviation Museum with interpretive signage that shares their story.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS MACOMB GATE REHABILITATION
Schofield Barracks, O‘ahu

Awarded for the cleaning, repair, and painting of the two concrete guard buildings, concrete wall extensions and decorative features of the Gate. Macomb Gate represents one of the first of several structures built in the Art Deco style of the 1930s by the 3rd Engineers Division and is one of two entrances to Schofield Barracks, the largest Army base outside of the continental United States.

TRIPLER ARMY MEDICAL CENTER
BUILDING 220 REHABILITATION
Moanalua, O‘ahu

The project rehabilitated the building’s original design features, including removal of the non-original asphalt shingles and restoration of the original Mission-style clay tile roof. Extended eaves with custom-contoured rafter stops and customized solid staining were restored; the exterior was repainted its original color and interior floors were also restored. Its rehabilitation complete, the building is now used as functional office space for medical interns.

WASHINGTON PLACE GALLERIES
REHABILITATION & RESTORATION
Honolulu, O‘ahu

Awarded for the rehabilitation and restoration of the 1920s-era second floor structure, removal of the screened porch addition, and restoration of historic site lighting fixtures, gate posts and door hardware. Comprehensive structural improvement has made it possible for the second floor to be open to the public for group classes, lectures, and viewing of historic artifacts in four gallery rooms. Completion of these four restoration projects was a significant step in meeting the overall restoration and preservation goals of the property envisioned by Queen Lili‘uokalani.

Schleck has been involved in the preservation of Wai'oli Mission House, Grove Farm and other historic sites on Kaua'i since 1971 when he began working for Miss Mabel Wilcox, the benefactor who bequeathed her family home and other historic buildings to be preserved as museums for the public. Since that time, Schleck has helped to preserve the culture, buildings, landscape and lifestyle of not only Wai'oli Mission House, but also the ahupua'a of Lepeuli, the plantation and immigrant stories of Grove Farm, and the Farm's sugar plantation locomotive collection in Līhu'e. He also helped initiate the Sugar Plantation Locomotive Interactive Learning Park.

Schleck served as the project supervisor of the historic Kaua'i County Building rehabilitation in Līhu'e which began in 1982 and spanned 22 years. He has also served as president of the Hawai'i Museums Association and as a board member of the Kaua'i Historical Society and Līhu'e Cemetery. He is the author of the book, “The Wilcox Quilts in Hawai'i”.

Historic Hawai'i Foundation salutes Robert Schleck for his lifelong dedication to historic preservation.

Congratulations Bob on receiving the Historic Hawaii Foundation’s Frank Haines Award!
We are truly grateful for your 46 year commitment to the legacy of Miss Mabel Wilcox, and for ensuring the preservation of the exceptional properties she left in trust to Waioli Corporation for the Kauai community.

Together, we make historic places a vibrant part of our communities.

Aloha,

From Kīlauea Point on Kaua‘i to Kīlauea on Hawai‘i, thanks to the accomplishments of our honorees, our communities will continue to benefit from the beauty and rich history of the places we honor this evening. These achievements reflect the diversity of our islands and remind us that through collaboration, whether through grassroots efforts or business partnerships, people make preservation happen.

Mahalo for your support of the 2018 Preservation Awards.
